A REPORT

OF THE

RECORD COMMISSIONERS.

The Twenty-second Report of the Record Commissioners is composed of two documents of unusual value to conveyancers and genealogists. The first contains the returns made for Boston in accordance with the Direct Tax of 1798, levied by the United States. The second is a careful census of the town, made in 1790, supplementing and correcting the information given in the first Directory of 1789.

The Tax return is so fully compiled that the area and boundaries of every piece of land in the town is given, together with the names of the owners, occupiers, and abutters. Every one who is called upon to trace the title to real estate will appreciate the value of such an official record, which enables him to check off all his conclusions at a fixed date. The more general student will find much curious information in the valuations and in the statements respecting the buildings then standing in the town.

The act of 1798, under which these returns were made, will be given later in this note. The returns for the whole State were deposited in the Boston Custom House, where they were long buried in obscurity. About thirty-five years ago, the consent of the Collector was obtained to the transfer of the custody of these papers to the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, where they are still preserved. The Society has had the papers bound in twenty volumes, and some indexes have been made. Vol. I. begins with the north part of Maine; Boston is in Vol. IV. The returns of a few towns are missing, accidentally lost. These papers, of course, did not belong to the Custom House, but Gen. Lincoln was in charge of them, while also serving as Collector.

The Census of Boston was made in 1790, undoubtedly under the authority of the United States government, it being the first of the national decennial enumerations. The lists here printed are from the manuscript of Col. Samuel Bradford, now preserved by the New England Historic-Genealogical Society.

In Lemuel Shattuck's admirable Report on the City Census of 1845, it is stated that besides the National Census taken in 1790, 1800, 1810, 1820, 1830, and 1840, there had been two State Censuses, in 1837 and 1840, and special City Censuses in 1825 and 1835. Since that date the State ordered a Census in 1850, and then the State decennial Census was taken in 1855, 1865, 1875, and 1885.

Although we have made some citations from Shattuck's report, in the first volume of our own reports, the following tables copied from their official statements may be of service. They are copied from Shattuck's report, and from the State Census of 1885, prepared by Carroll D. Wright.

This note-book of the United States enumerator in 1790 is of great value, as it gives us the names of the inhabitants. Our first Directory was issued in 1789 and the second in 1796. This list not only fills an intermediate date, but it preserves the names of many persons who would not find a place in the Directory. The two documents will undoubtedly be of great assistance to those who are interested in the genealogies of old Boston families.

The Index, as usual, is intended to embrace every name, under the spelling of the original. The reader is therefore cautioned to search under every possible variant of the name he seeks. The only Index of Places and Subjects possible for this volume, is given in an Index of Streets, Lanes, Courts, Alleys, etc., cited in the text.

As the United States laws are not easily accessible to the general reader, a copy of those relating to this subject is appended.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That when any tax assessed on lands or houses, shall have remained unpaid for the term of one year, the collector of the collection district within which such land or houses may be situated, having first advertised the same for two months, in six different public places within the said district, and in two Gazettes in the state, if there be so many, one of which shall be the Gazette in which the laws of such state shall be published by authority if any such there be, shall proceed to sell at public sale, and under the direction of the inspector of the survey, either the dwelling-house, or so much of the tract of land, (as the case may be) as may be necessary to satisfy the taxes due thereon; together with costs and charges, not exceeding at the rate of one per centum, for each and every month the said tax shall have remained due and unpaid. And be it further enacted, That each and every collector, who shall exercise, or be guilty of any extortion or oppression, under colour of this act, or shall demand other or greater sums than shall be authorized by law shall be liable to pay a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars to be recovered by and for the use of the party injured, with costs of suit, in any court having competent jurisdiction; and each and every collector shall, if required, give receipts for all sums by them collected, and retained, in pursuance of this act.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That for collecting the said tax, there shall be allowed and paid the following sums, and no more, to be retained by the several officers hereinafter mentioned in the final settlement of their accounts, respectively; that is to say: to each supervisor one half per centum on the whole amount of the monies by him received and accounted for, under and by virtue of this act; to every inspector, one-fourth per centum, on the whole amount of the monies to be by him received and accounted for as aforesaid; and to every collector, five per centum, on the whole amount of the monies by him to be received and accounted for as aforesaid: Provided, That no collector shall receive the said allowance, for, or in respect to any sum for which a warrant of distress shall have been issued by him; and Provided also, That no collector who shall refuse or neglect to render according to this act any monthly account of monies by him received, as aforesaid, or to pay over the same as is hereby directed shall be entitled to or receive the said allowance upon all or any of the monies by him collected, within the month for which he shall so refuse or neglect to account and pay over, as aforesaid.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That there shall be allowed to the surveyors of the revenue, respectively, to be paid by the supervisors, respectively, and exhibited in their accounts, as part of the charge of the said collection, for preparing collection lists, and computing the taxes payable for each individual, at the rate of one dollar for every hundred taxables contained in any such list.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That a separate account shall be kept at the Treasury of the United States of all monies to be collected and received by virtue of this act; distinguishing the several amounts received from dwelling houses, from slaves, and from lands, within each state, and also distinguishing the amount received in each state from each separate description of dwelling-houses, paying the same rate per centum.

JONATHAN DAYTON,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

THEODORE SEDGWICK,
President of the Senate, pro tempore.

Approved, July 14, 1798:

JOHN ADAMS,
President of the United States.

The United States Census of 1790 was printed in a small pamphlet, entitled, "Return of the whole number of persons within the several districts of the United States, according to 'An Act providing for the Enumeration of the Inhabitants of the United States,' passed March 1st, 1790. Printed by order of the House of Representatives. Philadelphia: printed by Joseph Gates; No. 23 South Third Street. Pp. 56."

As this pamphlet is very scarce and does not seem to have been reprinted, I have thought it best to republish the statistics relating to Maine and Massachusetts. It will be noted that Col. Samuel Bradford, whose note-book of names in Boston has fortunately been preserved, was the enumerator for eight other towns in the vicinity of Boston.

The act required the marshals of the several districts to make the census, being paid various salaries therefor; for example, two hundred dollars for Maine and three hundred for Massachusetts. They appointed all necessary deputies, who were paid one dollar for every 150 persons returned, or for a less number in sections thinly settled. The assistants were to post up copies of their returns in the two most public places in their districts, and the marshals were to file the completed returns with the clerks of their respective district courts.

W. H. W.

The list of enumerators as printed in the original pamphlet is as follows: —
